

The Power of Imagination

“I believe we have system of education that is modeled on the interest of industrialism and in the image of it. If you are interested a true model of learning, you don't start from this production line mentality. I believe we must go in exactly the opposite direction – that is what I mean about changing the paradigm. If we create the right incentives, if we value each learner for themselves and properly, growth will happen.”

How do personalized learning, problem-based learning, and social and emotional learning provide the right incentives and value each learner?